Tutoring Experience

During my university years, I gained extensive tutoring experience, helping younger students grasp complex historical concepts and improve their essay-writing skills. I've worked with both IB and IGCSE students, tailoring my teaching methods to suit their individual needs and learning styles. My focus is on making history engaging and relatable, using real-world examples and interactive sessions. I've also assisted students in preparing for their exams, offering targeted revision sessions and providing valuable feedback on practice papers. In addition to one-on-one tutoring, I've conducted group workshops that explore various historical themes and events, encouraging students to think critically and develop their own interpretations. My aim is not only to help students achieve high grades but also to foster a genuine interest in history that will stay with them beyond their school years.
