Tutoring Experience

With over seven years of tutoring experience, I've had the privilege of working with a diverse range of students, helping them excel in History, English, SAT, and ACT. My journey began with teaching English to secondary school students, where I quickly developed a love for personalised education. I've since expanded my expertise to include History and various standardised tests, tailoring my approach to meet the unique needs of each student. My background in curriculum development allows me to create engaging lesson plans that not only cover the required material but also foster critical thinking and analytical skills. I'm particularly proud of my success in helping students achieve top scores in their exams, which has often resulted in their acceptance to prestigious universities. My teaching philosophy is rooted in patience, adaptability, and a genuine commitment to seeing my students succeed.
